LIFE FOR LAMBERT. Wife Murderer Will Probably Plead Guilty in Second Degree.

Willis D. Lambert, the colored man at Killingly recently, is expected to be session of the superior court in this city today. Lawyer King, his counsel, stated yesterday that Lambert would plead guilty to murder in the second degree, involving a sentence of life imprisonment, in accordance with an agreement Attorney King reports acceptable to State's Attorney Charles E. Searls. After Judge Shumway imposes the sentence Lambert will at once be taken to state prison. As the grand jury reported an indictment of first degree murder it is considered fortunate for Lambert that he escapes capital punishment. On account of his advanced age it is not believed the accused will live many years.

SUES FOR FATHER'S BOARD. Evidence Completed in Case of Macfarlane vs. Peckham, Admr.

The case of Chauncey E. Macfarlane vs. S. Arnold Peckham, administrator of the estate of the late C. F. Macfarlane, ocupled the attention of Wednesday's session of the superior court, Judge M. A. Shumway presiding. The plaintiff claims that $287.15 are due him for the board and care of his father from Jan. 4 to Sept. 27, 1911, and for medicine, and the bill was disal-lowed by the judge of probate. Two brothers and one sister, Andrew and Charles F. Macfarlane, Jr., and Mrs. Lillian Miller, of Norwich, through the administrator opposed the allowance of the claim. Their contention is that their father was in partnership with the plaintiff, Chauncey E. Macfarlane, who was indebted to his father, and that he had paid for his board and care. The issue resolved itself into a dispute of the facts by the plaintiff and his brothers and sister. Besides children, citizens. The line of march the heirs at law, Dr T. R. Parker, will be to the cemetery, where graves frank Blish and Trumbull Burnham of veterans will be decorated with patwere called on to testify. The plain-feeble the daughter at Norwich made him few visits and that Andrew and Charles F. Macfarlane, Jr., did not share in the care of their father and that they were not on good terms with the brother who presents the claim for board and care against the estate. There was some discussion at the afternoon session concerning the claim eing presented within the six months' lmitation of claims. In this connecion S. Arnold Peckham testified to having mailed the plaintiff a notice of the disallowance of the claim May 10, 1911, at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and claimed to be very certain of the time. The plaintiff's attorney pro-duced the envelope in which the letter was mailed, which was postmarked charged with the murder of his wife | May 10, at 2.30 p. m. The testimony was completed yesterday afternoon brought before Judge Shumway at the and the arguments of 15 minutes for each side will be heard this morning. TRAVELER FROM NEW ZEALAND Reaches Danielson, Instead of London Bridge, and Has Strange Tales to

In Harry Langdon, 40, arrested during the early hours of Wednesday morning, while he was sleeping in a freight car in the local yards, the officers of the town court met an exceed-ingly interesting prisoner. Langdon entertained the officials with stories of his life and much of what he told them was highly interesting. Langdon is a native of New Zealand, his father a New Zealander, his mother English. His grandfather was a Maori chief, head of a wild tribe, and lived according to all the traditions of his trange people. Langdon is a man of intelligence, has roamed the world over and, as a keen observer of things, has picked up a fund of in-formation in many nooks and corners

His descriptions of New Zealand, its people and its government, one of the most advanced in the world, are delightful and instructive. Speaking of the uncivilized tribes, he details the methods of tatooing employed by them and the curious and fantastic devices they work on their bodies, as did his grandfather, by running a sinew, attached to a sharp piece of whalebone, under the skin, this sinew being saturated with the dyes used for coloring. At 20 years of age Langdon says he emigrated from Australia, with his wife and baby, as one of a colonization party of 700 families that settled in Paraguay, and that he upon his arrival in South America received a land grant of 480 acres. On this he labored until his wife and baby were stricken with illness and died. Discouraged by this great loss, he sold his interests, excepting the land, for $1,400, and has since been a roamer.

BANK BILL DEFEATED. House Rejects Bill Providing for Removal of Brooklyn Institution.

(Special to The Bulletin.) Hartford, May 28.—The first matter on the order of the day in the house Wednesday, was an act amending the charter of the Brooklyn Savings bank, which provides removal from Brooklyn to Killingly, and received favorable and unfavorable report from the committee. Mr. Hall, chairman of the committee on banks, spoke in favor of the removal, and moved that the report of the majority of the committee be accepted and the bill passed allowing the removal of the bank. Mr. Bugbee of Willimantic spoke for the minority report and in opposition to removal. A few depositors appeared before the committee who resided in Danielson and elsewhere and used the bank by reason of its strength, one of the strongest, but not the largest savings banks in the state. In opposition were a great many depositors and included the representative from Brooklyn, who knew best the desire of the people in regard to the proposed re-moval. No claim that the Brooklyn bank should be moved for the good of the bank will be made. There are two banks in Danielson and the officers of these are among those who want the change. Mr. Ryce of West Hartferd spoke in favor of the removal, as Danielson is the business center, and there is no savings bank in that town, and there should be one. Mr. Walker of Union, was opposed to removal; he was glad to learn there was a bank in Brooklyn, and were there one in God-forsaken Union he would want it to remain.

Mr. Danielson, of Plainfield, favored the removal as the bank was far removed from its patrons and is desired by the majority and the officers of the bank. If the bank is compelled to stay in its present position the business would be more curtailed than ever and the patrons continue to be nconvenienced Mr. Hall of Willington read a report of the board of incorporators and trustees who desired the change in locaadvantage of the bank and its depositors. Ninety-five per cent of the business comes from outside the town of Brooklyn. He introduced a vetition to show the local sentiment that in favor being 94 against and 84 in favor of the removal. Of the 2917 depositors, only 114 have opposed the bank being removed from Brooklyn. John M. Bessette, of Brooklyn, said the residents of the town he represented did not want the bank removed and have said so by petition to the committee. No member of the house yould consent to the removal of a bank from his home town and he hoped this fact would guide their vote on this If moved to Danielson, where banks die, the old Brooklyn bank would probably have to liquidate. In 1895 the legislature refused to permit the removal of the band and so did the legislature of 1907, and he hoped the legislature would make it three times and out. The bank has made gradual increase year by year, with profit, and paid to depositors four per cent. The claim is made that the majority of the depositors are residents of Danielson and surrounding towns, which may be so, and the reason for it is the soundness of the Brooklyn bank and the closing of the Savings bank in Dantelson. Mr. Bessette had been informed that if the bank was removed that thirty per cent. of the deposits would be withdrawn. The taking away of the bank would be a great loss to the town of Brooklyn and he hoped the bill as reported would be defeated. Mr. Bessette said it would cost $5000 to effect the removal of the bank and he understood the president of the bank is not enthusiastic in favor of removal. The bank owns the building in Brooklyn and by changing to Danielson the expenses of the bank would be materially increased. He said the proposed change was in a sense a political move and explained that the directors in the bank are the same gentlemen who are officers in a proposed new trust company in Danielson which was granted incorporation at the present session of the legislature. Mr. Bessette asked for the support of his fellow members to do fustice for the little town of Brooklyn and save to it the old and reliable Brooklyn bank.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hull's remarks, Mr. Bessette asked if action had been taken by the incorporators of the bank, and Mr. Hall simply said year. Then Mr. Bessette remarked that they were all dead. Mr. Thoms asked For a number of years Langdon has where the meeting was held. The vote abouts, has met his waterloo. In the been employed in the big cities of this was then ordered and resulted in the city court Wednesday Judge Puller country as a structural iron worker rejection of the majority report and sentenced him to serve three months and has averaged $4 a day. Home for Vacation. Henry M. Morse, who has been play-ing important vaudeville time in western states exclusively for the past two ears, is to spend his escation at his old home in this city. Mr. Morse is a native of Woodstock. For the past thirty years, however, he has been fol-lowing the theatrical life, and has been given important roles in some of the greatest musical productions of his time. He has been interlocutor and tage director with Cohan and Harris and Dockstader's minstrels and basso with the Klaw and Erlanger musical productions, Mr. Morse's repitation as a singer being country-wide. During his thirty years on the stage he has played all of the big cities of the country. Mr. Morse had been at his home here only two days when booking agencies in Boston and New fork offered him contracts that would keep him busy throughout the summer, but he is undecided as to accepting, as he is in need of a rest. Mr. Morse has agreed to play some short engagements in eastern Connecticut, but expects to do little until he re-turns to the west in the fall.

Instructions for Scouts. Dr. Edward F. Perry is to be instructor for Troop No. 2 of the Boy Scouts organization here in a first aid to the injured course that they are to take. Dr. Perry has previously instructed a class of boys here along the same line and there have been occasions since when the knowledge that the young men acquired has been of much value.

Will Play Alumni Team.

Putnam High school's baseball team did not play Wednesday, but has a game scheduled for tomorrow (Friday) with the Alumni team of the school this game to be played on High school field. This is the only game of the year for the Alumni team and a hot ontest is looked for, as the graduates take particular delight in defeating a regular school team-when they can do it, which is not always.
